Maurie Moore

A dream is a wish your heart makes. At the age of two years old, Maurie was dressing up in her Cinderella costume and forcing her parents to do the full-length play with her every night before bed. Now at 22, being able to do what she loves every day has truly been that dream come true. With a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Boston University in Acting and a concentration in Musical Theater, she thinks little Maurie would be proud.

In the spring of 2022, Maurie received classical training in a semester-abroad program from the prestigious London Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts. Through hard work and dedication, Maurie has had the opportunity to work with notable people in the industry, including Lorne Michaels, Tim Kirkby, Joanne Hock, and Karen Abercrombie.

In addition to acting, Maurie was a competitive figure skater for 11 years. Her experience performing on the ice played an influential role in shaping her skills as an actor. Maurie recognizes how her love of music has been tied into performing as well. She has been playing the piano since she was four years old and has become a skilled vocalist.

Playing Girl in ONCE was the perfect way for her to put all of her passions together and share what she loves most with her community. She is about to do her first professional musical at Boston Playwright's Theater, Aligator-A-Phobia in 3D!, and she is excited to share her talents with a broader audience. This fall, Maurie will reside in New York and will continue to follow two-year-old Maurie's dream.

Maurie's most recent film credit is in "Heaven Sent" on Pureflix, and she is currently represented by KU Talent.
